

CLUB NOTES

I want to wish everyone a happy new year and thanks for all your continued support in a very interesting 2020.

The yearly calendar is up to date on the website and Blake has been hard at work getting all the event sign ups online as well.

As always, we will be watching the Governor's words every 2 weeks and I can't wait to get the green light for Danny's to reopen and I know you are all ready as well. Communication will be more important this year than ever so make sure we have the correct email on file. With that being said, Monica, who most of you know from the restaurant, will now be in the office Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Her title will be member services. She is here to help you with any issues that come up. Her email is office@golfcreekside.com and her phone extension is #5.

I really think 2021 will be a great comeback year for Creekside.

Stay positive!

2020... A YEAR IN REVIEW

By longtime member Terry McEvilly

Finally, 2020 is behind us. While it was a year of loss for many, members at Creekside were still able to find a welcome escape as golf was never cancelled in Oregon. And, as a result, the club was able to continue moving forward, even with much of the activities of the Food and Beverage department sharply curtailed by restrictions.

As we look forward to better tomorrows in 2021, not only will the club be celebrating its 27th year, but members can also take pride in that this summer will be the sixth summer after we were supposed to have been long gone.

In some ways, it seems like only yesterday that the club was scheduled to close for good on April 30th, 2016. The pro shop had been cleared of all merchandise, staff had been given layoff notices and the bar and kitchen had been stripped bare of food, liquor and wine. The local newspaper had declared Creekside dead and rumors were rampant about what would happen to the golf course. It appeared there were no solutions.

But then two things unforeseen happened.

First, Creekside members decided the loss of the club would be too deep a tragedy and, with ownership support, raised over $330,000 from members and neighbors within a few short weeks to delay the closure. The final fund-raising dollars were deposited in the bank just a few days before the announced closure date.

And second, current General Manager Danny Moore was persuaded that he and Creekside would be the perfect match and he agreed to come aboard in the summer of 2016.

While the money raised by members bought the membership a limited amount of time to keep the club open, it was the addition of Danny and his leadership that truly put Creekside on the path to recovery. It didn't happen overnight, but with growing optimism and enthusiasm, the owners and members could see positive changes as Danny worked tirelessly to put a strong staff in place, overhaul the operations, improve the facilities, grow the membership and restore confidence in the club's future.

As you read this, the progress that has been made is stunning. For the first time in the history of the club, there is a waiting list to join, the golf course is in its best shape ever (thanks to Steve Limbach, a forward thinking and innovative superintendent), the owners have made an investment in the future with the rebuild of the beautiful #4 green, and work on filling in sand traps on #5 and #7. The restaurant is packed when it's open, pickleball, basketball and bocce ball courts have been added. Also, the culture has changed as more and more families have decided Creekside is the perfect answer for their recreation needs. I'm told Danny may be working on a bunker renovation in the near future.

And so here we are, with a bright future. But, as the past has taught us, we can't take anything for granted. As members, it's still important that we do our part – continue to promote the club whenever possible, recruit new members, be willing to help in any way, and keep creating the environment that will attract others to seek membership. Let's all hope that the waiting list to join grows not only in 2021, but for many years to come.

Wishing a happy new year to all. You've all earned it in too many ways to count.

PRO SHOP NEWS

Happy New Year, Creekside!

I think I speak for us all when I say we are happy to see 2021 finally here! With the new year we want to announce a couple new tee sheet policies. As everyone may have noticed, the tee sheet is exponentially busier than in years past. This is such a positive sign for the club and something that we are very excited to see. With this being said, it has been very hard for us to consistently get an accurate tee sheet with the X's. This has proven to be a problem for months and although we wish we could keep the X's permanently, it is simply not working. As we have talked about in the past, the purpose of the X on the tee sheet is to hold a spot until you know the names of the other players in your group. If you have the entire group blocked out and you only come with two or three players, you are stopping other paying members from being able to play the course. Our new policy will be that members can still use the X's to hold spots in their group, but if names have not replaced the X's 48 hours out from the tee time, the X's will disappear. This will force the member to either fill in their group or allow others to join them on any given day.

In addition to this new policy, we are also urging you to cancel tee times that you won't be able to make because we are now tracking "no shows". We don't want to have to put a "no show" policy in place so we are asking you to please help us with accuracy on the tee sheet.

Happy 2021,

Blake Netter

NEWS FROM THE BEVERAGE CART

Happy New Year Creekside Family and Friends!! Well we made it!!! I'll chalk 2020 up to the longest and craziest year of my life. However, there have been some great things that happened in the midst of the chaos. Creekside memberships sold out, the course was able to remain open (which was probably instrumental in keeping some sanity), the weather has been amazing for Oregon winter, I golfed at Bandon Dunes (INCREDIBLE) just to name a few. I hope you are all able to find some positive out of the chaos as well!

Although the bar cart has been winterized, you will see it out from time to time for special events and tournaments. Hair of the Dog is always the new year's debut so I hope I see a lot of you out there! We have a few sponsorship spots left on the bar cart. If you are interested in having your business logo on it please email me for details!

My golf game is improving and I've been at the range and on the course a lot more! It's a very addicting and frustrating game but I love it! Thanks for all your support and encouragement along this journey!

Starting the New Year, the creekside beverage cart instagram will be sharing recipes and fun golf facts. If you aren't following our page yet, please do!

Cheers to a happy and healthy 2021 with LOTS of golf!

Creekside's Starter LEE HOFFMAN... LPGA VOLUNTEER OF THE YEAR

This year, Cambia Portland Classic's co-caddie masters Stan Kawamoto and Lee Hoffman became the season winners of the 2020 AXA LPGA Volunteer Service Award Program.

Article from LPGA.com

The LPGA Tour's 2020 season will forever be remembered as a COVID-delayed year in which thousands of tournament volunteers stepped up to help make events happen, albeit with modifications for safety.

It was a year of adjustments, changes and completely new protocols following CDC guidelines, but each week, LPGA tournament volunteers raised their hands to help run the events that generate millions of dollars for their local charities.

Thanks to the AXA LPGA Volunteer Service Award, a program created three years ago to honor deserving volunteers at each LPGA Tour competition throughout the season, 24 nominated volunteers were saluted in 2020. These individuals were singled out for exemplifying the spirit of volunteerism and for performing beyond the expectations of their respective roles.

Tournament directors and title sponsors at each event were asked to cast a nomination for their volunteer who exemplified this spirit, which then placed those individuals into a pool of nominees for a random drawing. The tournament charity of the selected 2020 volunteer season winner would receive a $10,000 charitable donation by AXA in their name.

This year, Cambia Portland Classic's co-caddie masters Stan Kawamoto and Lee Hoffman became the season winners of the 2020 AXA LPGA Volunteer Service Award Program. Their tournament charity is the nonprofit Tournament Golf Foundation, which has distributed more than $18 million to the Greater Portland community in the nearly 50 years the event has been held.

"These are really committed volunteers and I think it's fantastic they are being recognized," said Tom Maletis, Tournament Golf Foundation's president and board chairman. "This is a great program and it has added a lot to the tournaments. Whether it's our tournament or other tournaments, it's so important to recognize these key volunteers."

Kawamoto, of Renton, Wash., began volunteering for the Tournament Golf Foundation in the mid-1980s. He met Hoffman, of Salem, Ore., at the Portland LPGA tournament. Hoffman actually caddied at the event for the first time in 1978 and continued looping there each year for about a decade.

Ten years later, Kawamoto asked Hoffman to join him as co-caddie master at the Portland tournament and the two have worked together since that time at the LPGA's oldest continuous tournament, founded in 1972.

Because of Hoffman's extensive experience as a caddie and Kawamoto's attention to detail, the Portland LPGA event has drawn rave reviews for years from professional caddies making that tour stop in the Pacific Northwest.

And for the tournament organizers of the event, caddie concerns have been in good hands for more than 35 years.

"We have around 600 volunteers at our tournament, but when it comes to Stan and Lee, what makes them great is they have been consistently good for a long period of time," said Chris Garrett, tournament director of the Cambia Portland Classic. "I never have to worry about the caddies being taken care of at our event."

Kawamoto and Hoffman have been such reliable volunteer caddie masters that when Garrett's duties with International Management Group (IMG) required him to bolster the caddie-master program at the LPGA's ANA Inspiration in California three years ago, he asked the Portland duo to also head up that program at the LPGA's season-opening major championship.

"The [professional] caddies know what to expect when Stan and Lee show up," added Garrett. "You can't say enough about the type of people who come back and volunteer for so many years for no payment, and in some cases, probably at their own expense. They are great volunteers who are also great people and they have meant so much to our event."

Volunteers at the Portland tournament have chaired and orchestrated more than 23 committees through the Tournament Golf Foundation. In fact, some of its volunteers helped run the LPGA's tournament in Phoenix for six years until the event became the Founders Cup and established its own local volunteer base in Arizona. Under guidance of the Tournament Golf Foundation, more than $5 million was contributed to Phoenix charities during the six years of the Portland-based nonprofit's direction.

"Volunteers are the reason we have been able to give so much to charity over the years," explained Maletis. "Instead of paying for-profit groups to come in and do the duties needed during tournaments, we have been able to tap into local groups to provide needed services and give money to those charities."

For example, groups such as the Boys & Girls Clubs of America have handled Portland's tournament parking, while Easter Seals has handled its concessions and the Oregon Golf Association has served as walking scorers during competition.

The nonprofits provide a needed service to the tournament by bringing their own volunteer teams to oversee the various areas of responsibility and ultimately benefit through their participation.

"They don't just get a check from us every year," Maletis said. "They add a lot to the tournament and the overall execution of the event."

Maletis and Garrett are still discussing with others how AXA's $10,000 donation will be spent. Programs such as Portland's First Tee and Oregon Junior Golf are on their radar because the groups have provided service as tournament standard bearers over the years.

They also may make "meaningful upgrades" to their tournament's caddie program in an effort to acknowledge the work that Kawamoto and Hoffman have provided as co-caddie masters.

"We will seek them out for ideas about how to upgrade the experience here at our event for caddies," said Garrett.

"Stan and Lee are the best at what they do and I'd put them up there with any one on any tour," Maletis said. "It really takes a burden off tournament management when you have key people like them overseeing an area of responsibility. We want people who have a real passion and motivation to be there and who get a lot of pleasure out of volunteering. This wonderful program recognizes those individuals."

That was a rough year! Let's hope that 2021 is going to be a better year! I would love everything to get back to some sort of "normal" as quickly as possible. Until then we will be here to serve you in any capacity that we can.

We hope to open the dining room for some sort of regular service after the restrictions have been lifted. Until then we are happy to be your "go to go" place for food and beverages. Give us a call or stop in after a round and get some delicious food and drink!

Again, my staff and I are extremely grateful for the support of our membership through these tough times. We appreciate all of you and look forward to seeing your happy faces here at Danny's.

Chow for now!
 Chef David Curtin

Hello Creekside,

I hope that everyone had a safe and healthy holiday. Let's put 2020 behind us and look forward to a better 2021!

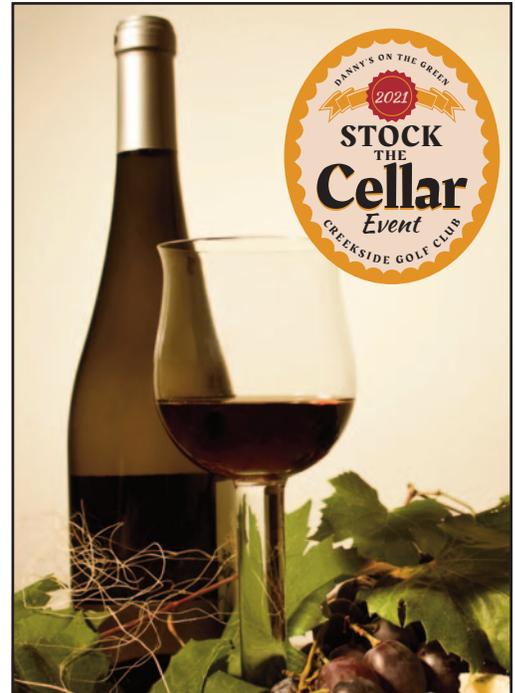

Soon, we will be back to golf tournaments, bingo and trivia nights, parties and dining out. In the meantime, we have golf, take-out and cocktails to go! Be sure to check our menu online to place orders.

Chef is making changes occasionally to keep up with demand. New to us are our "cocktails to go"! We can now sell cocktails, wine or beer to take home. We will place a sticker to prove that it is sealed. You must also order a substantial meal with the drink. I will also continue to have the member wine sale. Just email me at catering@golfcreekside.com Remember, if you want something that you don't see, I might be able to get it for you. We also have the firepits going on the back patio. This is a great place to sit, sip and enjoy the gorgeous golf course.

I know that we are all ready for things to return to normal. My staff cannot wait to get back to work and see all of you!

Here's to the best year ever! (At least better than last year)

Josie Hankins
 Food and Beverage Director

As we are STILL all holed up at home... we could all use a glass of wine! We are excited to offer very deep discounts on wine in our virtual Stock the Cellar Event!

Now you can enjoy wine at home and avoid the craziness at the grocery store and use your member dining dollars while our restaurant is to go only...No additional member discounts will be applied. Email your orders to catering@golfcreekside.com

May every hour now be happy hour!

Cheers!

PERFORMANCE CENTER

2020 you're out of here, and none too soon.

2021 you won't have to work that hard to be better than your predecessor. That doesn't mean you can slack off however, you still need to give us your best. We have a lot of ground to make up.

What does that mean for the Performance and Fitting Center?

This past year's biggest challenge was getting the clubs after we ordered. The front runner in getting them to us as if nothing had changed was Callaway with everyone else following way behind. Hopefully that will all change with the new product release coming early this year from all manufacturers.

What we have seen so far is Titleist TSi drivers, which we already have. Srixon ZX5 and ZX7, Ping G425's, and Taylormade's SIM 2. Callaway also has a new lineup but, as always, they are the best at keeping things under lock and key.

Start thinking now, which club in your bag gives you be biggest problem? We have a three step process to take care of it 1: identify, 2: get fit and order, 3: it arrives and gets put in bag.

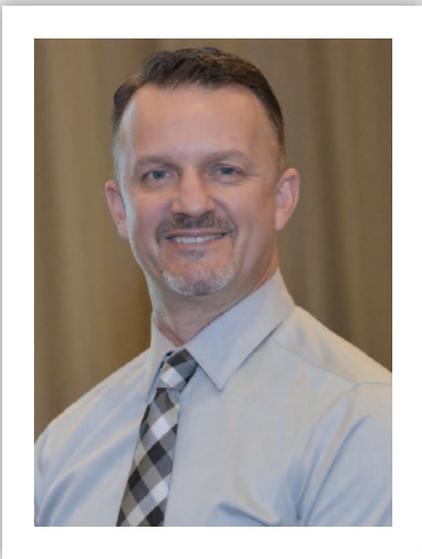

Now that's a great way to get 2021 off on the right foot.

WOMEN'S CLUB REPORT

Happy New Year to all Creekside members! The WGA encourages golfing to continue, weather permitting. Think of the Winter months as practice opportunities! Our first WGA opener will be on Saturday, April 10, starting with breakfast and golf.

Bingo is scheduled for Wednesday, January 6, 2021 at 6:30 pm. Stay tuned to receive updates as to whether we will be permitted to hold Bingo at Creekside.

Your Board is meeting regularly to plan for the coming season. We are discussing volunteer opportunities to bring members together in planning for the season. Stay tuned for ways in which you can participate – and make it fun!!! Please forward any questions or suggestions you may have to any Board member: Marilyn Heddal; Judy Quenzel; Eva Corbin; Ellen Vaterlaus; Maureen Smith.

The Toys for Tots campaign was a huge success, in spite of the restrictions for meeting on December 9 for the WGA Luncheon. Thanks to Maureen Smith for the many reminders about this important charitable opportunity. A full carload was taken to the local police with thanks to the WGA.

ing and breathing the game of basketball, I never in my wildest dreams thought I would take up the game of golf! After breaking my foot in a game of ball, it dawned on me that I needed to find a sport more my speed! "

"My immediate family consists of my husband Adam, and our three daughters, Hannah, 17; Gabby, 15; and Addie, 3. Adam's drive and determination for the game of golf caught my interest. At first I thought that he would go out for a game of golf and say he would be back in 6 hours as an excuse to be with his buddies. I now realize that the game does take that long! I have also enjoyed time with extended family – my Dad, Edward Gilles; brother Dave Gilles; uncle Dave Harrington. They are always out at Creekside golfing, laughing and enjoying the game."

"One in a million reasons why I love Creekside is the aspect of family, not just a "Creekside Family" but what it has done for our family, regardless of age or skill level. Anyone who has had teenagers knows that spending time with parents may not be their number 1 priority. Since the time we have joined Creekside, our family has spent some great quality days on the course."

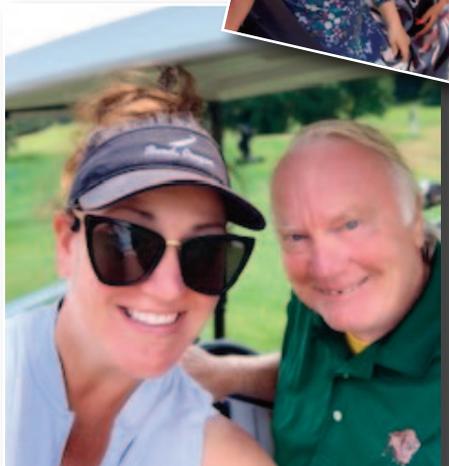

"I would ask the Board to consider more social events for the WGA members. Although Covid has caused a restriction on gathering, it could be done. For example, we could announce a "Secret" golfer, like Secret Santa. A blog would be the place to share stories of golf experiences, share family events, and what is going on in our lives. This could be a forum to remind newer golfers that we all started in the same beginner spot!! Can we organize fun scrambles and coed events around a theme? We could discuss in an Events committee meeting this season."
